From War Zones

Russia's territorial and political expansion in eastern Europe since the beginning of the war has been brought to the danger point by the Soviet-Finnish clash over the Muscovites' demands on their tiny neighbor.

Should Russia invade Finland there would be created in principle a situation very similar to that which precipitated the Hitlerian war. That is to say, another small country would be called upon to defend its sovereignty.

True, so far as we know, Finland has no defensive alliances with other states, as had Poland with the allies. However, the Finns have heavy moral backing the world over, and after all's said and done the present war is broader than the Polish issue.

The Anglo-French allies have announced that they are out to ensure a lasting peace by "ending abuses of force." It would be difficult in the long run to disassociate the situation of Finland from this broad program, if that wee country should be invaded.

Whatever may be the rights or wrongs of the Russo-Finnish argument over the border incidents, the world is bound to maintain that it is absurd to suggest that a pinhead-sized country like Finland would challenge the might of Russia to mortal combat. By that same token, rightly or wrongly, the onus of any invasion of Finland would be placed on the Soviet.

Russia's annexation of eastern Poland at the time of Hitler's conquest was held by England to be "clearly necessary for the safety of Russia." The Soviet's action in making the three small Baltic states—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—virtual protectorates, wasn't criticized by the allies, presumably because the Baltic trio acquiesced in the operation, willingly or otherwise.

The position of Finland, however, falls in another category. The Finns are prepared to go to war to resist the Russian territorial demands. They have built up their case carefully and appear confident that they have something they could submit with assurance to world opinion.

England has notified Russia that it hopes the dispute will be settled peacefully. President Roosevelt some time ago sent a similar communication to Moscow. So did other nations.

Finland has at least the moral support of her Scandinavian neighbors. The Balkans have been looking with sympathy on the difficulties of Finland—another small country like themselves—and they too fear extension of Russian influence over their peninsula.

Indeed, it gives to wonder whether Finland hasn't private assurances of something more

Kuhn Case Goes to Jury in New York This Noon

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The case of Fritz Kuhn, German-American band leader charged with grand larceny and forgery, went to a jury at 1:30 p. m. (12:30 p. m. C. S. T. today).

Judge James G. Wallace charged the jurors for two hours and 20 minutes, and repeatedly instructed them to confine their deliberations to issues involved and to pay no attention to any political implications in the case.

The jury went to lunch before beginning deliberations. Before beginning his charge Judge Wallace rejected a last-minute defense motion by Peter L. F. Sabbatino for a mistrial on the grounds that the prosecution's summation yesterday distorted facts of the case.

Commenting on Sabbatino's charge that certain press and radio comments had been hostile to Kuhn, Judge Wallace expressed belief that the jury, which has not been locked up during the trial, would not be influenced by such comments.

Kuhn is charged with spending $717 of the band's funds to pay for the moving expenses of Mrs. Florence Camp, blonde divorcee and the "Gold Angel" of his love letters; and with the larceny of $500 he claims to have paid James D. C. Murray, lawyer, for legal services to the band.

Judge Wallace recalled to the jury that Kuhn had testified the band still owes him $3,000 which he never drew from his monthly account of $200, and also reminding the jurors that the band leader contended he became owner of all band funds "under the leadership principle."

The jurors would have to acquit Kuhn on the Camp charges, he said, if they found as he contended that he had a right or title to the funds either under the "leadership principle" or on the $300-monthly allotment basis.

'Dixie' Davis Is Patient
in Albuquerque Hospital

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A wan taciturn patient in an Albuquerque hospital was identified today as J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, ebullient one-time "kid mouthpiece" of Broadway. He is suffering from a serious intestinal ailment.

With him was his red-haired wife, who signed the hospital register as Rose Buxton—the maiden name of lovely Hope Dare, New York show girl who married Davis after his release this fall from prison.

Davis, attorney for the slain Dutch Schultz, New York gangster, served a six-months sentence after turning state's witness in Thomas E. Dewey's smashing of the policy racket in New York City. He was freed in September.

The patient was registered as Robert Buxton, a "rancher" of Garfield, and would neither admit nor deny he was Davis.

Woman Held on Charge
Of Stabbing Her Mother

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Police Magistrate William D. Conway ordered today that Mrs. Viola Catanzaro be held under $5,000 bond to the grand jury on a murder charge in the knife slaying of her 82-year-old mother, Mrs. Ellen Mitchell, last August 2.

Little Drops of Water

Peabody, Mass., Nov. 29.—Peabody residents who are delinquent in payment of their water bills are going to get some tantalizing punishment. Mayor Joseph B. O'Keefe said that all persons who are behind in their payments and who offer no plan for settling up will get their water in drips until the bills are paid.

Water department officials will install a check on the meters so that the water will not flow, but drip, from the faucets. It will take about three minutes to get a glass of water. In order to take a Saturday night bath the dripping will have to start about Friday morning.

Victim Alleged
Robbery Beaten
Badly in Night

Arthur Beard, 27, this city, was brutally beaten and robbed at an early hour this morning on Page Drive west of the city and about 1:30, staggered into the boiler room at the Borden condorsory, to which Sheriff G. P. Finch and Chief Deputy LeRoy Bates were summoned. They took Beard to the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital where his injuries were dressed, after which he was removed to the county jail.

Sheriff Finch then started an investigation and at 2:30 this morning, Patrolmen Jones and Bohnstiel apprehended Romeo Blackburn, 25, this city, who was delivered to the county jail. The sheriff and assistant state's attorney Gerald Jones continued the investigation today and at noon the latter announced that a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit robbery, would be lodged against Blackburn later in the day.

Sheriff's Report
According to the report from the sheriff's office, following the investigation, Beard and Blackburn had been drinking at Red's tavern west of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway before the assault and Blackburn drove from the road home to the Page Drive, where he stopped his car and proceeded to beat Beard over the head with a bottle, fracturing his nose and inflicting several gashes about the face and head. After relieving Beard of his billfold, it is charged, Blackburn left his victim and drove away from the scene of the assault, to be arrested by the police about an hour later in a down town lunch room.

According to the sheriff's report of the incident, Beard had received a brutal beating and left in a semi-conscious condition, wandering about until he found his way to the boiler room at the Borden condorsory.

Russell Sentenced to Die in Chair Jan. 5th

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward today sentenced Jack Russell, 39-year-old Oklahoma robber, to die in the electric chair Jan. 5 for the murder of William Scott Hamilton, a young Arkansas City, Kan., salesman.

There was nothing brought out in Russell's defense, the court observed, that justified leniency. The government charged Russell committed 10 felonies from the time he escaped June 11 from the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlester until he was recaptured July 18.

Russell heard the sentence without a show of emotion. He stood before the judge with a three days' growth of beard on his face, dressed in the same suit he wore at his trial.

The almost nude body of Hamilton, shot once in the head, was found in a ditch near Ringwood, Ill., July 14.

MILWAUKEE MAN
REPEATS RAP AT
YOUTH CONGRESSContents Organization is Communist-Controlled;
Cites Other Groups

Washington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—William G. Ryan, of Milwaukee, who described himself as a former communist party member, repeated before the Dies committee today his contention that the American Youth Congress was a communist party "front" organization. This assertion, previously made by several committee witnesses and also denied by some, was described by Ryan as "a generally accepted fact."

"All communists know it," he testified. He said he had not worked in the Youth Congress but had talked to communists who had.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has addressed the Youth Congress and has asserted—although not before the committee—that she knew it was not communist-controlled. This week she offered to testify provided the committee thought she had any information of value. The committee has not acted on the offer.

Ryan said the majority of members of the congress were not communist party members. "The communists exercise control through small minorities," he said.

Names Other "Minorities"
The same was true, he declared, of the American League for Peace and Democracy, the American Negro Congress, the American Students Union, Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy, and Friends of the Soviet Union.

He said the situation was different with the international labor defense.

"It's more than a front organization," he declared, "It's the defense arm of the party."

As Rhea Whitley, committee counsel, called off a list of organizations mentioned previously in testimony, Ryan said the case of the International Workers Order was "somewhat different" too.

"I don't believe it's under the complete control of the party," he asserted. He said he gave this opinion in spite of the fact that he knew Max Bedacht, I. W. O. secretary, to be a member of the communist party executive committee.

Ryan added that the prominence of communists in the organization gave them "disproportionate control" but that they did not dominate.

Recalled to Finish Testimony
The witness, who had appeared before the committee earlier this month, was recalled to complete unfinished testimony.

At the adjournment of the previous session.

U. S. COURT RULES
UNION NOT LIABLE
FOR STRIKE LOSSSets Aside Verdict of Lower Body Which Had Ordered Payment

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The U. S. Circuit court of appeals, in a unanimous opinion, set aside today a lower court jury verdict which ordered a labor union to pay the Apex Hosiery company $711,932.55 for damages resulting from a sit-down strike.

However, the court said it had "no doubt" that the union and its president "should be compelled in the appropriate forum to answer in damages to the Apex company."

The verdict was returned April 3 by a district court jury against Branch 1 of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers and its president, William Leader.

Apex officials had charged violation of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust act, contending interstate commerce was hindered when the strikers were in possession of the Philadelphia plant—one of the world's largest hosiery factories—for seven weeks in the spring of 1937. The union leaders contended the strike started "spontaneously."

In its opinion today, the circuit court ordered the case returned to the district court and a verdict directed in favor of the union.

See No Intent of Restraint
The appellate court declared the evidence showed no intent by the union to restrain commerce.

"On the contrary," the court said in an opinion written by Judge John Biggs, Jr., "their (the union and leader) intent was to

Over Bed Covers

Flint, Mich., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Two men were killed today as the result of a quarrel which apparently began when one accused the other of taking more than his share of the bed covers.

Guyon, unemployed tool and die maker, roomed at Robinson's house. Melvin Soper, a neighbor, said Guyon left the house this morning and told him Robinson acted queerly all night, accusing Guyon of being selfish about the bed covers.

Mrs. Dante Levin, Guyon's daughter, said she heard two shots as she sat in an automobile waiting for her father, who had returned to Robinson's house for his belongings.

Amboy Service Station
Owner Reports Robbery

Sheriff G. P. Finch and Chief Deputy LeRoy Bates were hurriedly summoned to Amboy last evening about 6:30 o'clock when it was reported that a robbery had been committed at the Grey service station on route 52 at the north limits of Amboy. Grey was reported to have told the officers that two strangers drove into the service station where he serviced their car and received a bill in payment. He walked into the station for change, when one of the strangers who followed him, struck him when his back was turned, he said.

Grey was bruised about the left eye, the report stated and the service station operation reported that about $30 had been taken from the cash box, but the compartment for the sales tax had not been disturbed. According to Grey's narrative of the event, he recalled starting to get change for the bill, when he was struck from behind and when he regained consciousness, the car had departed and the cash register was emptied of everything except the sales tax.

Key Figure in Strike
Bloff was a key figure in the recent strike threat in the motion picture industry which A. F. of L. union leaders said would have closed every film theatre in the United States and Canada.

The strike was averted when motion picture producers met the union demands for a 10 per cent increase to be effective until Feb. 15 when the wage question will be reopened.

Courtney's petition was accompanied by an affidavit from Lt. Charles Egan of the Chicago police department who said Bloff was convicted in the Chicago Municipal court Feb. 23, 1922, of pandering and was fined $300 and sentenced to serve six months in the house of correction.

The affidavit relating that Bloff's appeal was turned down by the Appellate court on February 19, 1923, and that Bloff left Illinois about that time. Egan affirmed "that he (Bloff) never served the sentence or fine entered against him."

BULLETIN

Helsinki, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Finland today sent Soviet Russia a soberly considered reply to Russia's denunciation of the Soviet-Finnish non-aggression pact, which accompanied grave frontier tension between the two powers.

Officials declined to comment on the Finnish reply's nature or tone pending delivery to the Kremlin.

Government leaders conferred most of the day on the note.

By The Associated Press

Russian reports of fresh border clashes today brought the crisis between Finland and Russian nearer the boiling point.

Given a grave turn by Russia's scrapping of the Finnish-Soviet non-aggression treaty, the threatening situation overshadowed developments in the bitter sea and air warfare between Germany and the allies.

Britain reported a German raider had been shot down off the Northumberland coast while the antagonists disputed results of a British raid on the Borkum island aviation base yesterday. Germany said the raid was repulsed without loss, but Britain said three German planes were machine-gunned.

The Finnish government, meeting in their partly blacked out capital last night and again today, framed a reply to the newest Soviet communication, which denounced the Soviet-Finnish treaty of 1932 pledging the two powers to refrain from aggression against one another.

Additional tension arose from Russian accusations that Finnish

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29.—(AP)—State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county asked Governor Culbert Olson of California that William Bloff, motion picture labor leader, be returned to Chicago to serve a six-month sentence for pandering.

A date for the hearing on the state's attorney's petition was not set immediately, but it was said here an assistant attorney general would probably conduct a hearing "very soon."

Bloff, west coast representative for the International Alliance of Theatrical & Stage Employees, was charged in Courtney's petition with having left the state about the time an Appellate court ruling affirmed his sentence of Feb. 23, 1922, in municipal court.

The petition said that Chief of Police A. C. Hohmann of Los Angeles had advised Courtney by telegram that Bloff was in custody there.

The local Presbyterian and Methodist churches are uniting in a two weeks series of revival services. The meetings will begin next Sunday, Dec. 3, and continue to Dec. 17. Rev. Harry W. Vom Bruch of Chicago is the evangelist and the musical Whites will assist him in conducting the meetings.

Rev. Vom Bruch has recently been called to a large church in Greeley, Colo., but is filling his engagements before going to this new charge. The people here are very fortunate in securing his services. Rev. E. Louis Grafton, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, engaged him for these meetings at the Winona Lake summer conference in August. No doubt those who listen to station WMBI have often heard him speak over the radio.

An outstanding feature of this series of meetings will be the special children's meetings. The public is welcome and invited to attend as many of these services as possible.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in its effect. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores, 10c and 25c.

SERVICE CLUB CHARITY BALL, EXPECTED TO BE BRILLIANT AFFAIR OF FRIDAY EVENING

Between 9:30 and 1 o'clock Friday evening, the group of ambitious young women who met less than a year ago for the purpose of organizing a Service club, will be hosting in the Masonic temple ballroom at their first Charity ball, an affair they hope to make an annual event.

Approximately 125 civic-minded Dixonites and out of town friends from Chicago, Sterling, and Oregon, have already manifested their interest in the club's philanthropic program by purchasing tickets for the semi-formal party. Everyone is welcome to help swell the proceeds, which will be used for needed equipment at Katherine Shaw Betha hospital, probably reading lamps for the wards.

Since their organization meeting last February, the club members have already purchased furnishings for a third floor room at the hospital. Eighteen resident and five out of town members compose the club, which is headed by Mrs. Gunder A. Torstenson.

Decorations used for the December dance last week will also provide the background for Friday evening's gaiety, the two organizations having collaborated their decorating efforts. A winter landscape has been arranged in the ballroom, where Earl Betourne's well-liked band from Kankakee will play for dancing.

Mrs. Robert Dixon is general chairman for the ball. Mrs. Kenneth Haines heads the ticket committee. Mrs. Clarence Vroegindewey's committee selected the orchestra, and Mrs. John Culley is in charge of decorations.

Other members of the club include Mesdames Sherwood Dixon, Ragnar Erikson, Taber Johnson, Edward Jones, W. S. Marloth, David Murphy, Robert Preston, Donald Raymond, John Roe, S. P. Stackhouse, Gunder A. Torstenson, Forrest Trautwein, Ray Wilbur, Martin Dillon of Sterling, Paul Newcomer of Chicago, Robert Shire of Colorado Springs, (Maxine Rosenthal), Oliver D. Rogers of Evanston, (Elizabeth Beech), Miss Mary Davies of Chicago, and Miss Jean Stephenson of Evanston.

Last-minute planning for the party was completed at an afternoon meeting of the club yesterday at Mr. Marloth's home. Mrs. Robert Dixon presided in the absence of Mrs. Torstenson, who left for Milwaukee on Sunday with her little daughter, Chris, for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Torstenson expects to return to Dixon tomorrow.

A number of parties will precede the dance. The Cal Tylers have invited 22 guests to their Brinton avenue home for a 7:30 o'clock dinner, before joining the throng of dance-goers at the Masonic temple nearby. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones of 823 East Fellows will be entertaining informally for a dozen or more friends at 8 o'clock.

Among the out of town dancers will be the Edwin Eichlers of Dundee, who are expected to arrive in Dixon on Friday. They will be stopping with Mr. Eichler's parents, the Isador Eichlers of 316 Fifth street.

"Designing and Construction of a Waist Pattern" is to be the study topic. Sixteen young women acting as leaders are expected to be present for the lesson, which will be repeated for the various units during the month.

BOOST THE BIG BUDDY CLUB

There is no more worthy all-year-round project in Dixon than the Big Buddy Club and that organization richly deserves the financial support it is now seeking.

The Big Buddy Club is doing much more than any mere charitable organization can do. It is doing more than just clothing shivering backs and feeding hungry stomachs. It is feeding starved souls and saving and building character in the youth of Dixon. It is saving young manhood and steering our boys from the paths that lead to St. Charles and a life of crime into paths of righteousness and honor and self respect.

The Big Buddy Club is not attempting to reclaim "bad boys." Its aim is to keep boys from becoming bad and to start them right before they have an opportunity to go the wrong way. Let's help them.

MAKE ROOM FOR THE YOUNGSTERS

About 5,000,000 young men and women between the ages of 16 and 25, who have completed all the schooling they intend to take, are scanning help wanted columns, sitting around employment offices, lounging in corner drug stores, or just lying around home. All of them would be glad to work if there was work to be done. Every year an additional 500,000 young people leave the schools and sharpen the competition for the few available jobs.

The 16,000,000 young folks in this age class who are employed are not entirely happy. According to a recent survey conducted by the American Youth Commission, about 43 per cent have the feeling they're in dead-end jobs. They feel they have neither security nor much chance for promotion.

The figures are depressing enough. But what is even more gloomy is the attitude of young people reflected in a Y. M. C. A. sample poll. In New York City alone, 80 per cent of all persons between the ages of 15 and 34 are no longer sold on the old American idea that ability is enough to insure success. The day of Horatio Alger has been left far behind.

The youth commission recently interpreted this condition as a distinct menace to American neutrality in the present European war. To many of the youngsters, anything, even war, would sound better than complete idleness. These young people today are just as energetic, just as anxious to get out and do something as were youngsters not so many years ago when there were enough jobs to go around. Many of them might welcome even the hazard of death under gunfire just as long as they were kept busy and they knew they were useful.

Further schooling is not the answer to this national problem, but about 65 per cent of those polled in New York agreed that extension of vocational guidance facilities would help. Little, even this plan, while it may be a good idea, can do little more than juggle job applicants around a bit. Vocational direction cannot open new jobs.

Whether we like it or not, the whole thing boils down to a simple mathematical formula with a result that is not too cheering. Industry is rapidly increasing its production, and in many fields output is equaling that of 1929. Payroll indices throughout the nation have generally gained over those of last year. Exceptions noted are largely in clothing and allied industries, and they will come along as soon as the spurt takes definite shape.

Nevertheless, there are still somewhere between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 persons without jobs. It is estimated the nation's industries at peak will use about 1,000,000 less men than they did in 1929 and to this group must be added the 2,000,000 who were unemployed in 1929 and the 5,000,000 workers who have come upon the scene within the last 10 years.

Owen D. Young, acting chairman of the youth commission, places responsibility squarely on the government and insists jobs of some kind must be made. Just as important as handing out jobs, however, is rebuilding faith in the old axiom of ability bringing on success.

PAUSE IN EUROPE

For a week between Christmas and New Year's Day, the guns of Europe, which haven't been booming very much anyway, may cease to sputter altogether, providing all hands agree to a proposed holiday truce.

The French newspaper L'Oeuvre, speaking for the allies, says France and Britain are willing. The neutral nations of Belgium, Spain, Holland, Italy and the Vatican, which have been informally invited to make such an offer, will undoubtedly be happy to do their part. It remains, now, for Hitler to assert himself—and there isn't much doubt that Hitler will agree if everything is handled right.

When a couple of pugnacious urchins tear into each other in the alley, they usually fight until one is sent home with a bloody nose. If they agree to stop the mauling to grab a sandwich, the chances are that the scrap won't be resumed. If the Christmas truce could be arranged, the people on both sides might become so fond of brightly lighted streets again that they won't want to pull the switch on Jan. 2.

AVOIDING TROUBLE

The United States can have a deep sigh of relief that the American merchant marine is not plying the European side of the Atlantic these days. From all indications, mines are as abundant in European waters as celery roots in a bowl of vegetable soup.

If American ships were crossing the water, the chances are pretty high that at least one would have struck a mine by this time. For that section of the revised neutrality act which prevents ships of American registry from entering combat zones the United States can be thankful. The Athenia "incident" may have been shrugged aside and the tragedy ascribed to the natural results of war. But too many losses of American life and property could not be laughed off. The cumulative effect of such disasters would bring the national temperature dangerously close to the boiling point.

A drifting mine has no conscience. The only certain way for a skipper to avoid hitting one is to steer a wide course around the waters where such mines have been set loose.

News Behind THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Nov. 28—Hitler's air-sub-mine successes against British might on the seas are great tragic and dramatic events—but not decisive victories, and apparently not likely to be.

Their importance has failed to impress the martial maritime authorities of this government who know these following as the inside facts of the situation:

The Germans have been destroying British merchant shipping from the start of the war up to last Monday, at a rate which would accomplish the destruction of 1,600,000 tons in a year. This is the count made by a government department based upon the sinking of 75 ships.

But the British can and are producing between 1,000,000 and 1,300,000 new tons of ships a year. The commerce department has figures showing British production was 1,030,000 tons last year when they were not using their capacity to the fullest.

If they produce 1,300,000 this first year of the war, their net loss could be only about 300,000 tons, an amount which would cause them no serious worry for several years.

There are other non-propaganda figures here similarly comforting to the British maritime lifelines. Their losses of 300,000 to 320,000 tons to date represent just about 2 per cent of their merchant fleet. More than 2 per cent of their fleet is laid up all the time for repairs.

Their position is much better now than during the World War, even though more of their ships are being sunk. In 1913 their production was 1,900,000 tons, in 1914 it dropped to 1,700,000 and then to 651,000 in 1915 and 608,000 in 1916. Their production then fell so much mainly because they needed men more than ships, and drafted workers from the shipyards for the fighting front.

This time they have refrained from drafting shipyard workers and are counting on expanding rather than contracting their ship production.

In the World War they suffered a shortage of steel, and their marine system was so antiquated and inefficient that each ship averaged five months off for repairs. This time they are not worrying about steel supplies and have improved their maritime efficiency.

If the British want more ships in a hurry, they can get all they want over here. This government owns 119 ships now idle, with gross tonnage of 770,000; 187 are idle in private hands with gross tonnage of 965,000. Most are old. It would cost $100,000 on the average to put the old ones into commission. The maritime commission law would have to be amended to permit sale of those owned by the government. But it could be done.

No overtures for them have come from the British, probably because the ships are not needed. Instead the British have turned to building new small freighters of 5,000 tons each as more suitable for war needs.

Inside negotiations for sale of U. S. Lines ships (the ones tied up since the Panama deal was howled down) to neutrals have been started quietly. A sale to Belgium may be arranged.

Both Republican and Democratic conventions next year are likely to go to Chicago. The Kelly city machine would provide pleasant auspices for this Democratic party, and probably do no harm to the Republicans. If the latter come to the conclusion that they would like more friendly surroundings, they might go to Cleveland, or try Detroit.

This trend in midwest convention sites may not be apparent for some time yet, as rail publicity will be permitted other bidders until the national executive committees get down to a choice. Senator Wagner, for instance, is trying to get the Democrats to come to the World's Fair. California representatives are eager to get them out there.

A five-department committee will be created shortly to handle the piles of technical difficulties which have developed over the so-called neutrality shipping law. State, treasury, commerce, justice and the federal reserve board will be represented.

State department is carrying the brunt of the work so far, and is ruling in a conciliatory way so as to make the act interfere as little as possible with normal trade. For example, it is getting ready to rule that banks in London and Paris can establish their reasonable, normal credits through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Applications will be turned

The Creeping Man

Chapter 46

PURSUIT

Michael and Bunny came back to the house only a few minutes after Tuck had left it. Michael was whistling as he ran up the steps to the sun porch, and talking to Bunny over his shoulder. "Well, it clears the air a little," he was saying, agreeing with something she had already said. Then, "Tuck," he called.

"I guess she's gone to bed," he said as Bunny came in and stood beside him. They went into the house. Michael went through to the kitchen to find Charlotte Jean. It was dark out there.

"I wonder where Charlotte Jean is?" he said. "It's only half past eight."

Bunny looked at him with the beginning of a troubled frown. "It's her evening off, Michael, and I didn't think about it. Tuck shouldn't have been left alone, feeling so ill."

Michael was half way up the stairs when she said this. "The bedroom door was closed. He put his hand on the knob and opened it very softly, so as not to disturb Tuck."

He had not been disturbed. He came down again in two steps. "She's not there," he said quietly.

"She's nowhere downstairs either," Tuck called. "Tuck!" Then she went to the door and called, "Kitty, Kitty!" "Agamemnon's not around either," she said after a moment. "She's not in the house, Michael. He never goes away unless she does."

Michael went out and stood in the garden. He looked over at the Deane's. There was a light in an upper room.

"She may have gone over to see Gordon," he said, and started swiftly for the gate.

He did not knock, but opened the door and went in and ran up the stairs. Mrs. Deane was there alone.

"Has Tuck been here?" Michael asked softly.

She got up and came to the door. "Yes," she whispered. "Gordon wanted to tell you something. Then she came in. But the door boy couldn't talk intelligently, I'm afraid. I don't think she understood what."

"Where is she now?" "Why, I'm awfully sorry, Mr. Forrester, she went out of here and home, I suppose. She didn't say 'What did he tell her?'"

"Why, that's just what I was telling you. I don't think he told her much of anything, although it seemed to be troubling him terribly. He said something about a Creeping Man, I remember, as if he were having a nightmare. He said the Creeping Man came up out of the ground and hit him."

"Where did he come up out of the ground?" "On the cliffs, Mr. Forrester. And..."

Bunny was waiting on the porch. "Isn't she there?" "No," he muttered. "The cliffs." He ran across to the path. Bunny followed him. Fear lent her wings. The sun was gone. The open space on the cliff was dark.

"Tuck!" Michael called. "Tuck! Where are you?"

There was no answer. He called again. Bunny stood beside him, listening.

"Hush," she whispered after a moment. "Do you hear that? Doesn't it sound like... Kitty-kitty?" she called.

The sound resolved itself into a loud, muffled thump.

They ran toward it. The cat mewed again. Michael reached into his pocket and drew out a flashlight. He turned it on ahead of him.

There, on top of a stump, mewing anxiously and sniffing at it, sat Agamemnon. He turned his head toward them and blinked in the light. He gave another loud, pitiful mew.

"It Opens!" Bunny said, excitedly. "Look at it! It's the Creeping Man!"

Michael drew a long breath. "That would be it... look here, Bunny, this is a knot. I've got my fingers in it, or is it?"

She held the light closer. "It looks like it."

He twisted with his fingers. "Well, it isn't. It's a pin that lifts out. He took his hand out of his pocket, opened it with shaking fingers, and worked at the knot. Then he leaned on the stump and it gave way.

Michael was down the narrow steps, and he was hesitating. Bunny followed him. He took the flashlight from her once he was safely on the cliff, and held it out before him. Far below he saw a ledge of rock and another right above it. The light showed that a narrow cave, with water at the bottom. He went on down to the ledge of rock and walked along it as far as he could reach. He was sweating and could see about him. There above him, at the right, stood Bunny. She was just beneath the stumps now. She was about twenty-five feet from him. He looked up at her. He had thought this would be the explanation of the boat... there was no boat there. No boat, and no Tuck.

With a sudden inspiration he reached forward on the ledge, as far as he could go and touched that wall of rock with the end of the knife still in his hand. After a moment it moved a little, rippling the water below. Michael pushed at it, again, gave a short hard laugh and came back along the ledge. "Painted canvas. Go up quick, Bunny. I've got to get her. I've got to follow her."

They left the stump, and Michael darted off toward the house again.

"What are you going to do, Michael?" "Row across. It's the only thing down only if they involve unusual amounts or appear to be suspicious."

to do. The only thing we know is that he'll be down-stream from the spot I last saw him. Unless he hides his boat, and walks, like a surely I can find something there."

And he was off toward the river where he and Gordon had hidden the new boat.

Across The River

The river was not more than a mile wide at the point where Michael crossed it, but it seemed like a million. The current was swift, and very strong, and it took all his strength to keep the boat from being swept down-stream more rapidly than he could make headway. All of his strength he used himself grimly, and all that lent him by the awful thought of Tuck in the hands of this madman, this cunning fiend who held life as of no value.

He gritted his teeth. If only he had been able to discover that one little clue. That one end of the ball of thread whose loops wound round him constantly and led back only into the tangle. The letter written by Murchison himself, the fact that Gordon had said again and again that the mysterious boat came from across the river.

OIL RESOURCES

MAY BE ANSWER

IN CURRENT WAR

Economic Experts Consider Fuel More Important Than Food

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Why has the European war bogged down? Why, most especially, have those touted air forces been used so sparingly?

Before the fight began, military experts suggested a knock-down-drag-out from the opening gun, with huge air armadas swooping down on key cities.

Ask the economic experts. The shortest of the many answers they give is one word: oil.

Oil isn't the whole story, but many of the economists and practically all the oil men call it a chief factor in the strategy of raw materials in this "economic war of attrition."

This is the machine age. As many see the economic background, motor fuel for the mechanized armies, air fleet and navies is the nub of the strategy. Oil epitomizes what is duplication large or small degree, by iron ore, cotton, rubber, copper, lead, zinc, nickel, tin and other materials.

Supplies may explain why the war in the west has started in slow tempo, why it is being pushed mainly on the seas, why Germany's vaunted air fleet is held in leash.

The consensus of some experts is that Germany is better situated than in 1914 to beat the allied blockade on foodstuffs, textiles and most metals, through increased domestic production, accumulated reserves and sources of supply to the southeast.

Where they spot a possible "Achilles heel" is petroleum—gasoline for the air fleets and for transport, Diesel oil for the U-boats and other naval craft, lubricants to keep modern weapons operating.

Opinion varies on Germany's exact position in oil. Nobody knows how large a reserve of fuel the reich was able to accumulate before the fighting began. "Wild guesses" range as high as 100,000,000 barrels. Long-range views are muddled by uncertainty as to how much Germany can step up production of synthetic fuel, what she can get from Rumania and Soviet Russia, both substantial producers.

Germany, having made strides in producing synthetic and substitute products for basic imports, was racing to attain self-sufficiency in oil, pointing toward 1942 as the year it might achieve independence. The start of the war in September, however, raised the question whether the reich could fight a long war without fresh supply other than from across the Atlantic.

In the midst of the "blitzkrieg" Polish campaign, Hugh Gibson, former United States ambassador to Belgium, suggested an oil shortage might be the determining factor in the war. Germany, he said, would begin to feel the pinch in 1940 and regarded oil supply as more urgent than food.

Considering the tanks, airplanes and trucks in action in the Polish drive, one authority estimated Germany may have used as much as 8,000,000 barrels of oil in that one month "lightning" war compared with monthly consumption for civil purposes of about 4,000,000 barrels last year.

In 1938, according to trade statistics, Germany consumed 53,000 barrels of oil. Reich production of crude was put at 4,215,000 barrels, synthetic output (mainly from coal) 13,000,000 barrels and imports about 36,000,000 barrels (from Venezuela, Mexico and the United States, mainly).

Allies Import Oil

England and France, too, import practically all their oil. The big difference is that the allies have wider access to supply on the seas. Germany appears blockaded save for what she can get through the Danube from Rumania, from old Polish fields (largely in Russian hands) or through neutral countries.

Soviet Russia as a source of supply is rated by petroleum authorities a big question-mark. First of all, they say, Russia has poor transportation facilities. V. R. Garfias, an international oil authority, says Russia hasn't enough surplus for export to be of much help to Germany.

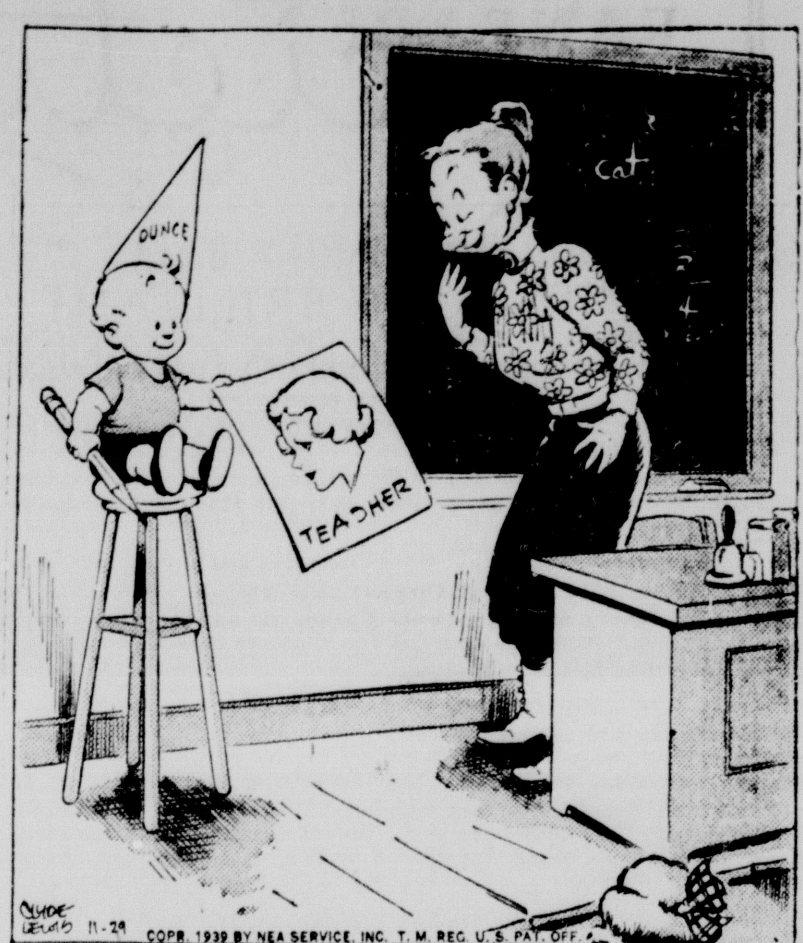

The major possibilities, as some see it, would be increased diversion of Rumania oil to Germany and expansion of synthetic output with the aid of Polish coal-fields.

It takes four or five tons of coal to make a ton of motor fuel, an oil man observed. Even assuming refining facilities were available, he doubted whether German transportation could handle a wholesale shift to synthetic fuel.

Look at the world oil picture. Uncle Sam stands out heads and shoulders. Of nearly 2,000,000,000 barrels produced last year, the United States turned out 1,213,000,000, Venezuela 173,192,000, Russia 206,000,000 and Rumania Germany's immediate hope—48,366,000.

Germany controlled the Rumanian oil-fields during the World War. Now, with oil much more important than it was in those "horse and caisson" days, the question of Rumania's future status in regard to Germany is vital.

HOLD EVERYTHING!

AS OTHERS SEE THEM

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. McNichols will entertain the Dixon football team and a few friends tomorrow night with movies of the squad's games this season and the boys will get a chance to see themselves as others see 'em. Let us hope that the flickers don't reveal any stepping out of bounds on Purple touchdown plays in the style of the Wisconsin-Illinois argument.

GAMES TONIGHT

Among the cage games around the neighborhood tonight will be Forrester at Leaf River, Plano at Paw Paw and Kirkland at Plato Center.

VOLLEY BALL AT FRANKLIN GROVE

Monday night found activity beginning in the Franklin Grove volleyball league. There were six teams organized and headed by their captains as follows: Roy Shoemaker, Roy Wendell, Howard Byer, Arthur Schaeffer, Carl Sunday and Leslie Henry. To date there are 43 members out for the sport. After their vacation from last winter it will take a couple of weeks to grease up the squeals and get limbered up for the first round which starts Monday night. At that time the first game will start at 7:30 with the teams of Schaeffer and Wendell leading off the battle. In the second game Henry's team will meet Sunday's crew and the final game will pit Shoemaker's team vs. Byer's club.

DECLINE INVITATION

The Dixon Knacks basketball team was invited to participate in the opening of the cage season for the Polish Falcons at Rockford Sunday, but according to Business Manager Bert Cummings, the local team has declined the bid due to other arrangements and many of the players will be engaged in the Alumni-High school game here Friday night.

INDUSTRIAL BASKETBALL

Ken Barnhart, manager of the Reynolds Industrial League basketball team which will meet Paul Killen's team in the season opener at the high school gym Dec. 6, has announced the acquisition of Joe Curlee to the roster of his team. Curlee last year was seen with the Knacks. This brings Barnhart's list to full force with the following ten players: Curlee, Jerry Kerley, Earl Flanagan, Eugene Lebre, Marvin Rebuck, Grant Young, Levene McMillion, Howard Cinnamon, Charles Wright and Joe Murphy.

DIXON GRIDDER IN IOWA

Francis Henry, Dixon athlete and former outstanding player at Drake university, is now playing with the Des Moines Comets, an Iowa football team. Henry has been playing right half for the Comets who last Sunday defeated the Fort Madison prison Bulldogs, 53 to 13. A fifth touchdown was scored for the winners when Henry flipped a scoring pass to Antonio in the first half.

AP Scribe Takes Last Pot-Shot at Grid Predictions in Fading Season

BY HERB BARKER

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Taking one last pot-shot at the fading football season:

Thursday's games:

Kentucky-Tennessee: Some say the unbeaten Volunteers are due for a big surprise. If so, this guesser will be surprised at the same time, Tennessee.

Texas-Texas A. and M.: All the rules of the fiction-writing fraternity would call for Texas to win this one, with Jack Crain running madly in all directions. The chances are that Crain will do plenty of running, but this hide-bound conservative will string along with undefeated Texas A. and M.

U.C.L.A.-Washington State: No reason to believe that Kenny Washington and U.C.L.A. can't get past this one.

Vanderbilt-Alabama: Hard to figure, since Alabama's offense has been nothing to write home about. Vanderbilt played great ball against Tennessee. The hat is the only solution... Alabama.

Auburn-Florida: Auburn seems to have a decisive edge.

North Carolina-Virginia: Seems safe for North Carolina.

Wake Forest-Davidson: Wake Forest has too many guns.

Tulsa-Arkansas: Arkansas rates the nod.

Arizona-Montana: Taking Arizona.

Rutgers-Brown: Rutgers' unbeaten record may go by the board in this one, but we'll take the risk, Rutgers.

Denver-Colorado: Colorado.

Saturday's games:

Army-Navy: These two seldom have come up to their annual duel with worse records. Neither has won a major game. As far as this guesser is concerned, this is an absolute toss-up, so the coin spins and says... Army.

Tulane-Louisiana State: Doubt that L.S.U. is equipped to stop the unbeaten Green Wave, Tulane.

Southern California-Washington: Washington has improved rapidly, but appears to be in for a lacing here. Southern California: New York University-Fordham: A faint nod toward Fordham.

Dartmouth-Stanford: Stanford plays well in the east, but we'll take Dartmouth.

Boston College-Holy Cross: Two fine teams collide. What edge there is belongs to Holy Cross.

Duquesne-Detroit: Unbeaten, untied Duquesne, but it probably will be a close shave.

West Virginia-George Washington: George Washington.

Georgia-Georgia Tech: Tech.

Southern Methodist-Texas Christian: S.M.U. is the choice.

Baylor-Rice: Who can tell what Baylor is going to do? Still, Baylor.

St. Louis-Washington University: Very, very close. Washington.

Long-range guessing: Dec. 9, Southern California over U.C.L.A.; Tennessee over Auburn; Southern Methodist over Rice.

STEWART CAGERS BOW TO MIGHTY LEE CENTER FIVE

Coach Blodgett's Team Smothers Invaders In 43-18 Score

Gehant, six-foot-two-inch center on the Lee Center high school basketball team scored a total of 22 points as he led his mates in a 43 to 18 victory over Steward on the home court last night. Gehant scored nine field goals and four free throws for his total.

The Lee Center hosts took a determined lead in the initial period as they held Steward scoreless and chalked up eight points for themselves. In the second frame the winners scored 12 points while the visitors were able to nose in with only six to make the half score, 20 to 6.

No Let Down

Not letting down the Lee Center quintet went ahead to score 10 points in the third frame and then blasted the opponents with 13 in the final quarter. During this time Coach Lemon's boys were able to ring up only five tallies in the third and seven in the final quarters.

Wrigley, forward on the Steward team was high point man for the losers with three field goals for a total of six points. The defeat evened the count for Steward with one victory already scored over Ashton last week.

Steward goes to Amboy Friday night and Lee Center will entertain the same team on Dec. 5.

In the lightweight game last night the Lee Center reserves won 19 to 14 with Case as the high point man for the winners with 13 points.

Liezer was the referee and Potter the umpire.

Landis imposes fines on

DODGERS, TIGERS AND TWO MINOR LEAGUE CLUBS TODAY

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, imposed fines totalling $2,500 on the Detroit Tigers, the Brooklyn Dodgers and two minor league clubs today and issued a statement in which he scored several teams for failure to file contracts and other player-negotiations with his office.

In a series of lengthy rulings which awarded back salary and free agency to several players, Commissioner Landis fined Detroit $500; Brooklyn, $500; Dayton, O., owned by the Dodgers, $1,000; and the Columbus club of the American Association, owned by the St. Louis Cardinals, $500.

"From the investigation in this (referring specifically to a Detroit case) and other cases," Landis said, "it appears that clubs are signing players to contracts and terms acceptances which are never filed for promulgation and are terminating the relationship by informing the player that the agreement has been or will be destroyed."

"These methods operate efficiently to convince players that they are tied up with the club concerned and cannot secure baseball employment elsewhere, notwithstanding such arrangements violate the rules and are invalid."

"Repeated denunciations of these evil practices having proved unavailing, notice hereby is given all clubs that a fine of not less than $500 will be imposed in all cases where clubs hereafter engage in these practices."

Stillman Valley Defeats Ashton, 35-24, Last Eve

Ashton's cagers, leading 23 to 22 at the end of the third quarter, cracked completely in the fourth frame last night when they invaded Stillman Valley and bowed, 24 to 35, to the hosts in a Route 72 conference game. The Aces were able to score only a lone free throw in the final period as the Valley lads added 13 points to their total to assure victory.

Ashton, which has changed its style of playing under Coach Vaux in recent practices, was doing well at the start, but failed to maintain the pace. The Aces scored five points to Stillman Valley's four in the first period and at the half the visitors were leading 18 to 14. From then on their ability to hit the ring successfully cooled and Stillman Valley began its charge with eight points to Ashton's five in the third frame.

Jenkins who had been playing forward with the Aces last night demonstrated his ability as a guard and was high scorer for his mates with four field goals and five charity shots for a total of 13 points.

Barick, a guard on the opposing team, was high scorer for the game with 14 points from seven field goals. The tall Valley boys scored only one free throw on the seven fouls by the Aces.

In the lightweight game Ashton was victorious, 28 to 10.

Doctor Catches Burglar by Employing Camera

Crystal Lake, Ill., Nov. 29—(AP)—Dr. E. L. Brunswick caught a burglar with his camera and a lot of ineptitude.

The doctor has a filling station as a sideline and had been bothered by repeated burglaries. He is a camera hobbyist and used knowledge gained therefrom to set his camera-burglar trap.

He rigged up his camera behind a door in the station, its lens pointed through a hole. He devised an electric-eye arrangement, with an infra-red beam and a mirror. The idea was that if a prowler walked through the beam, a flash-bulb would be set off and the camera shutter would click.

Furthermore, the light from the flash would strike a second photo-electric cell, setting off a screaming siren. No doubt the prowler would flee in terror but would leave his portrait behind.

Well, all that happened the night of November 7. Dr. Brunswick triumphantly presented a picture of the burglar to Sheriff Lester Edinger. Some days later the sheriff questioned Harold Lewis, 19, a Woodstock, Ill., farmhand, about some petty thefts.

He got out the tell-tale picture. The sheriff said it looked like Lewis but the youth denied the burglary until yesterday. Then he confessed, Edinger said, and also admitted a series of burglaries in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

Sheriff Edinger said three youths released last July from Green Bay, Wis., reformatory were implicated and arrested. He identified them as Richard Nielsen, 26, Clinton, Wis., held at Woodstock, Ill., and Bernard Nichols, 20, and Allamander Schubert, 19, Walworth county, Wis., both held at Elkhorn, Wis.

UNCLE SAM WILL PRY INTO LIVES OF HIS PEOPLE

Many Personal Questions
Will Be Asked by 1940
Census-Takers

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—The questions to be asked in the 1940 census, soon to be shown to the public in a personal sort of way, will pry into corners of American life that have never been fully explored.

In addition to the time-worn job of finding out how many persons live in the United States, and where—so that each state will know how many members of Congress it is entitled to—the census will ask a group of questions whose answers will be pieced into a mosaic of social conditions.

A few of the new topics are: Whether homes are owned or rented and their value. School attendance and the highest grade completed.

The citizenship of foreign-born residents. Changes of residence in the past five years.

Whether persons have jobs, are seeking jobs, and if not, why not; if they are looking for jobs, how long have they been out of work; if they have jobs, what are they working at.

Their salaries, wages or income, and the source. What persons have Social Security accounts and the proportion of their wages or salary subject to tax.

Separate Questions. Besides this material, which will furnish the meat for economists to feed upon for a decade, a separate list of questions is being prepared for a housing census.

These, too, are virtually in final form, but no money has yet been provided for the survey.

This study, if made, will provide a complete picture of living conditions, asking such questions as: Where and what kind of houses do Americans live in?

When were they built and are repairs needed.

What kind of water supply, toilets and bathing facilities do they have?

How are they lighted and heated?

How many radios and mechanical refrigerators do they have?

What kind of rents are paid?

What is the mortgage status?

All these are topics on which the New Deal economists have been seeking light for the last four or five years. Many of the administration's social endeavors have been aimed at the improvement of conditions whose existence had been detected by partial surveys.

Judge Holland Needn't Tell of Business With Slain Race-Track Owner

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—The state's investigation of business deals between Edward J. O'Hare, slain race-track operator, and Municipal Judge Eugene Holland will be continued without benefit of testimony from the jurist.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court decided yesterday Judge Holland could not be forced to answer grand jury questions concerning real-estate projects in which he and O'Hare were involved.

Judge Prystalski said the municipal judge refused to be questioned by grand jurors last week on grounds that his answers would tend to incriminate him in some future proceedings. The presiding judge added "the court is powerless to act further in this matter."

Wilbert F. Crowley, assistant state's attorney, thereupon announced no further effort would be made to question Holland but that the grand jury would continue investigating the Holland-O'Hare business relationship.

Agree to End Long Chrysler Strike Today

Detroit, Nov. 29—(AP)—An agreement ending the 54-day-old Chrysler Corporation labor dispute was reached early today, subject to ratification by the rank and file of the C.I.O. United Automobile Workers Union.

A favorable vote by union locals on terms of the agreement could start an estimated 150,000 workers back to their jobs tomorrow and write finis to the longest and most costly labor dispute in the history of the automobile industry.

Formal announcement of the settlement came at midnight, after an all-day conference attended by K. T. Keller, Chrysler president; Philip Murray, national vice president of the C. I. O.; James F. Dewey, Federal labor conciliator, and other high officials of the union and corporation.

Union pickets withdrew from the gates of the Chrysler plants immediately after the settlement was announced, and the corporation agreed to close the plants—ostensibly kept open to any employees who wished to work during the course of the dispute—in order to prevent any last-minute "confusion."

Terms of the agreement were withheld pending union approval, but it was reported unofficially that they included a general wage increase of three cents an hour. The union originally demanded 10 cents an hour more and later reduced its demand to a five-cent-an-hour increase.

Other disputed points concerning the terms of a new contract had been settled earlier in the protracted negotiations.

Starting with a "slow-down" quarrel at the Chrysler main Dodge plant here October 6, the dispute spread through the corporation's interdependent system of manufacturing units until production of 1940 model cars was paralyzed. Other concerns, notably the Briggs Manufacturing Co., were affected by the tieup, along with dealers and distributors throughout the country. Ultimately, the stoppage affected approximately 150,000 workers and was costing an estimated $3,000,000 a day in lost purchasing power.

From the beginning it was a "war of words", with hotly-worded statements issuing from the headquarters of both the corporation and the union almost daily. With the exception of individual fights along the picket lines, violence flared only once, when a general fight broke out at the gates to the Dodge plant last Friday. Several persons, including two Detroit policemen, were injured.

Republicans like Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Senate minority leader McNary of Oregon and House minority leader Martin of Massachusetts have favored holding their convention after the Democrats.

Indianaapolis, Nov. 29—(AP)—Henry S. Bonshib, a pioneer worker in the national prohibition party and an agent of the American Bible Society, is dead here at 82.

He died in his home yesterday. His funeral will be here Saturday. The sermon subject will be—as he asked—"I have fought the good fight." Burial will be in Vincennes.

Bonshib, a native of St. Louis who came here at the age of 21, once estimated he had given away 15,000 Bibles. Riding an old-fashioned high-wheeled bicycle, he traveled the midwest, east and south and the plains states distributing Testaments.

NATIONAL PARTY CONVENTIONS IN '40 MAY BE LATE

Suggestion of Deferring
Meetings Gains Some Favor, Criticism

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Suggestions for deferring the 1940 political conventions and thereby shortening the presidential campaign found some favor in both parties today, but Republican leaders declared they would not let President Roosevelt make the decision.

Although not espousing the idea at this time, the Chief Executive was described authoritatively at Warm Springs, Ga., yesterday as having discussed with recent visitors the advisability of putting off both Democratic and Republican conventions until July or August. They usually are held in June.

Economy was given as the reason by some proposing the delay. Others held that in these times of international crisis a campaign lasting from July to November would bore the country and get little results in the summer months.

Rep. Ditter of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, asserted such reasoning was an effort to subordinate domestic issues.

Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee, said in a statement:

"Solicitude Amusing

"Mr. Roosevelt's deep solicitude about economy in political campaigns is very amusing in view of his record. Taxpayers might wish he would direct his economy to Federal spending."

Hamilton said the Republicans were interested in a late convention and had been studying the idea for months, so that it was not a novel proposal.

"It seems to me," he added, "President Roosevelt is arrogating to himself a great deal of authority when he undertakes to direct when the Republican party should hold its national convention, x x x Republicans will not permit him to decree when they shall meet and where."

Or the Democratic side, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, a recent White House caller, said he was in "thorough accord with the idea of holding the conventions off a little bit." He thought it would be good strategy for the Democrats to defer their until September, leaving a little more than a month for the drive for votes.

Republicans like Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Senate minority leader McNary of Oregon and House minority leader Martin of Massachusetts have favored holding their convention after the Democrats.

Meat-Packing Industry Back in Black Again

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—The nation's billion-dollar meat-packing industry is "back in the black" and nearly has reached its normal level of output.

This was disclosed today in a survey which showed packing-plant employment at its best level in recent years. Furthermore, plant volume, which is of prime importance in the industry's economic health, was expected to expand further, reflecting increased production of livestock.

The Institute of American Meat Packers, spokesman for the packers, said audits probably would disclose that the industry as a whole had enjoyed marked improvement in earnings for the fiscal year ended November 1. Although most companies have not completed audits, two important representative units, Armour and Hormel, have reported substantial earnings gains.

About five per cent more meat was produced and consumed in the United States during the fiscal year just closed than in the similar period in 1937-38 and the industry is looking forward to an increase of about seven per cent during the current year. This helped to lift the industry's index of employment to above 101 in September, compared with 95.5 the same month last year.

The index, based on figures of the bureau of labor statistics, uses employment records in the industry during 1923-25 as a basis for 100. Illustrative of the recent improvement in employment, the index in April, 1939, was 91.8 and in 1935 it was below 80.

INCREASED AGE PENSIONS WILL REQUIRE TAXES

States Will Have To Secure
$4,000,000
More Annually

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29—(AP)—Administration officials estimated today a proposed increase in Illinois old age pensions would cost the state about $4,000,000 a year, for which they said new revenue would have to be found.

Governor Horner said yesterday he favored a severance tax on oil production to offset the cost of raising maximum old age assistance payments from $30 to $40 monthly, as contemplated in a forthcoming special session of the legislature.

Approximately 20 representatives of major and independent oil companies operating in Illinois later conferred for two hours with the governor on oil legislation, but no conclusions were announced.

One conferee said proration and tax questions were discussed, and that "everyone there favored a state conservation law." He said there were fewer expressions from the oil men on the tax question but that "they seemed to think a tax is sure to come."

Up To Legislature

Horner said in a press conference it would be up to the legislature to fix a rate of tax that would be equitable, and did not say what levy he might recommend.

The estimated $4,000,000 yearly jump in pension payments applied only to state funds. The Federal government would match the added state outlay, under Social Security act amendments "that become effective January 1."

The general assembly appropriated $48,000,000 for pensions for the two year period started last July 1, but grants have been running well over the $2,000,000 monthly rate since then.

For November the outlay was $2,740,632, and the finance department predicted the regular appropriation would be exhausted six to eight months before the end of the biennium even at current pension rates.

Another factor in the financing problem has been a steady rise in the number receiving pensions. A new peak of 137,814 pensioners was reached this month, higher than any other state.

Christmas Seal Sale in State Starts Friday

Over fifty million seals will be received through the mails by the citizens of Illinois this week in the annual campaign to raise funds for the support of local, state and national tuberculosis work planned along the lines of education and prevention of the disease," according to a statement received today from Dr. J. P. Denby, Treasurer of the Illinois Tuberculosis Association.

"This year," Dr. Denby said, "the Seal Sale period is one week shorter than in previous years due to the fact that the agreement between the Tuberculosis Associations and the Red Cross Chapters was to the effect that the Christmas Seal Sale would officially open on or about December 1. This shorter selling period is expected to be overcome by the fact that there appears to be greater enthusiasm on the part of everyone now that success in the drive against tuberculosis is in sight."

"However," he said, "it will be greatly appreciated by the many voluntary associations throughout the state if recipients of Christmas Seals purchase their seals at as early a date as possible and use them on all Christmas mail and packages."

$155,000 Necessary

"It is absolutely necessary that the goal of $155,000 be reached this year if the local tuberculosis associations are to continue their programs of educational work and of finding cases by use of the tuberculin test and the X-ray in the early, definitely curable stages. Although great success in the fight against tuberculosis has been achieved in thirty years, there must be no let-up now because no home is safe from tuberculosis until all homes are safe."

In concluding his statement, Dr. Denby pointed out that the only Christmas Seals sold for the support of the organized campaign against tuberculosis carry the familiar double-barred red cross. He also pointed out that, by far, the greatest portion of the money raised each year remains in the local community for the local campaign against tuberculosis. For example, the 1938 Illinois Christmas Seal Sale, exclusive of Cook county, totaled $139,487. Of this amount $1 local associations retained $103,822 for their work. The Illinois Tuberculosis Association received $28,690, and the National Tuberculosis Association $6,974.
